We try to sell our blenders through distributors whenever possible. We believe this gives the best overall service and system design. As a result, McDantim only sells our blenders at the suggested retail price. We will gladly give you names of distributors who work in your area to enable you to get the best overall system and value. Our experience shows that your draught system is responsible for the handling and final quality of thousands of dollars worth of beer each month. Long term value is not always directly related to price.
